ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A data transmission method for microprocessors is accomplished by using an I/O pin to transmit data signals while another one to transmit pulse-wave signals, wherein the data signal consists of a command code character, an initial address character, a data-length character, and at least one data-conception character, and each character consists of eight data bits, one parity bit, and one responding bit.